Some ideas to help you support your child's learning at home this term!

These are just suggestions for you to share with your child – the important thing is for your child to proudly show you what they can do, and for you to have fun together! Let me know how you get on!

Literacy

This term we will be basing our learning around stories. Everyone loves a favourite old story but why not try to find a new favourite – I think our favourite in class might be Lima's Red Hot Chilli!

Communication and Language

It can be difficult for children (and adults!) to set aside their own ideas in order to really listen to the opinion of others and then to relay that back to a third party. Tell your child what you think about a particular topic and ask them to explain your views to someone else. Then try it the other way round, valuing your child's opinion as much as your own!

Mathematics

Challenge your child to work out how to share a plate of biscuits or packet of sweets between a number of friends. How can they do this to make sure everyone gets a fair share? What could they do if another friend came to join in?
